3. Commence: In vigilia Natalis Domini nostri.

La souscription qui se trouvait évidemment au dernier feuillet a été enlevée; la moitié inférieure de cette feuille est coupée et remplacée par de vieux papier.

193 ff., mal chiffrés jusque 203, la pagination saute par erreur de 187 à 198. Deux marges peu coupées.

Belle exécution, du même style des précédents. 302 lettres initiales noires, 160 rouges ou bleues. Lettre initiale miniaturée au premier feuillet: R(ex) et la sainte famille sur les marches d'un portique. Maria adorant l'enfant Jésus. 125×120 mm.

Grande et belle lettre initiale verso du ff. 58 Z(elus), en or, sur fonds bleu, 135×130 mm.

La reliure assez bien conservée. Dimensions: [illegible]×[illegible] mm.

LITURGICAL MANUSCRIPT

NUMBER III.

A book of Offices, opening with the special matter for the Vigil of the Nativity. Unfortunately, the last leaf has been mutilated and the lower half cut away and replaced by a piece of paper of the period in which the volume was apparently written. It will be noticed on some of the earlier folios, 1, 3, 4, 26, etc., that to adapt the volume to the use of some particular church, in which the responses were not the same as those written out by the scribe, others written on strips have been tipped in with gum and placed over the original writing. There are really one hundred and ninety-three folios in the volume, although, according to the pagination, there should be 203, but through an error the scribe has jumped from 187 to 198. The writing is beautifully done, and is of the same style as Numbers I and II. Of the initial letters, three hundred and two are in black and one hundred and sixty in red or in blue.

The initial letter on the first folio R(ex) is miniatured, and shows the Holy Family on the steps of a porticoed building. Saint Mary is adoring the Infant Christ surrounded by an ox, St. Joseph, the ass, etc.

There is a particularly well executed large initial letter Z(elus) on the verso of folio 58. The gold and blue are fresh and attractive. The filigree decorations of some of the initial letters, especially those depicting flowers, are elaborate and worthy of examination.
